

6,30pm Thursday 25 March at St Mary's

Get a vivid a picture of the area where our Under Tree School is, more easily than going to Malek. Read a gripping novel about the reality of life during the civil war in a village near our school. And then meet the author to discuss Southern Sudan then and now. Ros Wynne-Jones, journalist and campaigner on Southern Sudan, is coming to talk to St Mary's about the current situation in Southern Sudan and her novel "Something is going to fall like rain". Celia Cleave (8876 0254) can get you a copy of the book direct from the publishers, who are giving £3 to Under Tree Schools for each book purchased.
